

GOVERNMENT SEEKS RECOVERY OF LAND

Plans to Use Right of Eminent Domain to Repossess Norfolk Properties.

[By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, March 28.—Plans for recovering to the government, through exercise of the right of eminent domain, of lands at Norfolk, Va., upon which extensive construction was erected during the war, are under consideration. It was said today in government circles.

Millions of dollars worth of buildings were erected during the war at the naval base at Norfolk, Va., on land to which the government had no title.

A similar situation was said to exist at Camp Grant, Ill., which it is proposed to transfer to the Department of Justice as an experimental reformatory industrial school for first offense prisoners in Federal penitentiaries.

Some of the land at Camp Grant, it was said, has already been returned to its owners and the government will seek its recovery through the right of eminent domain.

Further steps in this matter are expected following a conference to be held Friday between President Harding, Attorney-General Daugherty, Secretary Weeks and Rev. Herbert H. Votaw, superintendent of Federal prisons.

YEGGEMEN IN AUTO BLOW STORE SAFE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., March 28.—The Tillinghast general merchandise store at Lorton, on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, several miles north of Occoquan, was robbed during Sunday night by professional yeggmen, who broke open the safe and robbed it of a large amount of money.

Besides the accumulation of cash, the thieves took a quantity of notes, insurance certificates and other business papers stored in the safe. Bloodhounds from the District of Columbia workhouse at Occoquan, were rushed to the scene of the robbery Monday morning following discovery of the crime, but were unable to pick up the trail.

For this reason, the county authorities believe the work was done by yeggs traveling in an automobile. The Fredericksburg authorities were requested to be on the lookout.

EXPECT 1922 TO SET NEW FRUIT RECORD

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW CANTON, Va., March 28.—Indications this week are that there will be a record fruit crop this year. While peach and plum trees are beginning to bloom, commercial orchards hardly show a bud, and there is hardly a possibility that they will come out enough to be injured by the spring frosts. The oldest orchardists of this section are confident that 1922 will go down in history as one of the greatest of all fruit years.

Contrary to the expectation of the experts, the weather is expected to be in well-nigh perfect physical condition in spite of lack of spraying during last summer. Some orchardists are this week applying delayed sulphur sprays with nicotine sulphate in order to combat both scale and aphids. This method has proven popular within recent years.

TUG IS RAMMED, SINKS, WHOLE CREW SAVED

Goes Down Off Sewalls Point When Struck by S. S. Allianca.

[By Associated Press.]
NORFOLK, Va., March 28.—Captain Anderson and all members of the crew of the tug Bess, which sank early last night off Sewalls Point, after collision with the Old Dominion Transportation Company steamer Allianca, were saved. The men were picked up by small boats shortly after the crash occurred and put aboard the tug.

The Allianca, bound to New York, struck the tug when the latter was making her way out from the coal piers to her tow, anchored off Sewalls Point. Though the Bess was badly damaged, she remained afloat long enough to shift into shallow water before she sank. The Allianca now lies a few hundred yards inside of the edge of the channel, with her decks awash. Captain Anderson said this morning that he and his men were soon taken off the tug and had suffered no discomfort. What steps will be taken toward raising her he was unable to say. The Allianca was apparently undamaged, and continued on her way to New York after the accident.

The Bess was a steel tug of 106 tons and of a length of 106 feet. Her owners are the Thomas Towing Company, of New London.

FEAR OVERPRODUCTION OF DARK TOBACCO CROP

Feeling Good Prices Certain Regardless of Yield, Ground of Belief.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW CANTON, Va., March 28.—That there is serious danger of the production of an overcrop of dark tobacco is admitted by many of the prominent tobacco growers and Cooperative Association leaders of this section.

Nearly all the growers of this portion of the dark tobacco region have signed the five-year marketing contract, and the impression generally prevails that high prices will necessarily be paid in the future, whether the crop be large or small. This attitude of the growers seriously disturbs the more thoughtful leaders, and efforts will shortly be made to instruct every grower to limit his crop for the season of 1922.

The fact that dark tobacco sold higher than the flue-cured varieties throughout the late season has also incited many to prepare for tobacco-growing who never grew the crop before.

It is understood here that efforts will be made to have convenient receiving warehouses established for the handling of the dark tobacco. Unchecked, the late season has placed it as a thought more or less dissatisfaction will prevail among the contract signers. It is understood that full warehouse facilities will be offered the association this place.

COURT CUTS RED TAPE OF LAW; CUPID WINS

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, Va., March 28.—That love laughs not only at locksmiths, but at the red tape of a Virginia law, was demonstrated here when Charles F. Goodlake, of Danville, and Miss Stella K. Keston, of Greensboro, N. C., presented themselves at the clerk's office of the Corporation Court here for a marriage license.

The couple's trouble started when the prospective bride admitted that she had not reached her majority and the license was refused. The prospective bride, however, happened to have a brother, Percy Shelton, a resident of Lynchburg, who was called in, and after a few minutes Judge F. P. Christian had named the brother guardian. The brother and guardian then consented to the marriage and the license was issued.

$1,000,000 New Money Needed!

Richmond's population now is 180,187, having increased by 1,312 during the last ten months, according to reports just printed.

To serve this additional population with street railway and electric light and power and other Public Utility services requires $918,400 of additional or new Capital.

Notice what a Senate committee reported recently:

"Every time the U. S. gains a million in population the Public Utilities have to raise, through the sale of securities, $700,000,000 for extending its plants and service to provide the present modern conveniences for the additional customers created by that increase in population."

That's why new Capital is constantly required by street railways and other Public Utilities.

To get that additional Capital, Utilities have to be in a position to invite or attract it.

Capital already invested may be deprived of its just return and otherwise unfairly treated, but Capital not yet invested cannot be compelled!

HEATHSVILLE, Va., March 28.—Shad and herring are being caught in pretty good numbers, but are rapidly bought-up by boats from Crisfield.
